Faced with what one council member called running two elections at once (a mail in and an in-person), Delaware County Council took a big step this week to assure that residents are able to safely and securely vote in the fall presidential elections.

Delaware County Council accepted a $2.2 million dollar grant, awarded by the nonpartisan Center for Tech and Civic Life through its COVID-19 Response Grants Program, for training of poll workers; setting up drop-box locations for voters to return ballots; supporting opportunities to vote early through over-the-counter mail-in voting; and voter education and outreach.

In recent weeks, mail-in voting has become a topic of concern as President Trump has questioned its reliability and changes at the United States Postal Service have slowed the mail.

“The deadly COVID-19 pandemic has seriously impaired the ability of local governments to administer safe and secure elections,” said Delaware County Councilwoman Christine Reuther. “We are grateful for the Center for Tech and Civic Life for granting our county these funds to help us ensure safe elections during this public health emergency, which we would otherwise have a difficult time doing given the budget shortfalls.”

Reuther estimated the grant would cover 45% of the county budget for elections.

There are a number of ways one can vote this year. But first voters must be registered by Oct. 19 to be on the voter rolls.

They can vote in person on Election Day, Nov. 3r, at a local polling place. They can request a mail-in ballot in advance either by absentee (which requires a valid reason) or with the no-question mail-in ballot, which any qualified voter may simply request without a reason.

With the COVID-19 pandemic, the county has seen record numbers of requests for mail-in ballots. Reuther estimates 80,000 requests already been approved. The Board of Elections will begin mailing those out in mid-September.

As new applications arrive, the board will continue mailing them out, but officials warn the deadline for applying is Oct. 27 and members doubt a voter who waits until the last minute will get it returned in time.

“The challenge is going to be, we have to mail it to you and it’s not clear you will even get it by Election Day. And it is absolutely certain you will not be able to mail it back. But we are trying to address that,” Reuther said.

The CTCL grant money was helpful for the county to find a solution. County council purchased 50 heavy-duty drop boxes at a cost of $152,000 that members hope to install in each of the 49 county municipalities and one at the county Government Center Building in Media. The boxes will be securely attached and will include video surveillance. The boxes are expected to be installed the first week of October.

Questioning the legality of these boxes, the Trump campaign has filed a lawsuit stating boxes such as these could enable voting fraud because they are not monitored.

“Every state that has no-excuse mail-in voting allows for drop boxes,” said Reuther. “The Pennsylvania Department of State issued guidance on the use of drop boxes well before the primary. It seems kind of silly to say that just because the statute does not have a detailed provision on drop boxes that they are not permitted.”

Reuther said in planning for the drop boxes, the county had options concerning the lawsuit. It could assume that they would not be allowed and do nothing, or it could wait to see what happened with the lawsuit. These options would deprive the voters of having the boxes to vote with, even if the lawsuit was thrown out, as it takes time to order and have the boxes installed.

Officials picked a third choice and are moving ahead with the boxes; if the Trump campaign suit prevails, they will lock them.

“I am grateful we received funding to move ahead with a plan to deploy 50 drop boxes without putting taxpayer dollars at risk,” Reuther said. “The lawsuit may discourage other counties from making it easier to return ballots, which may have been the point of it.”

A third option residents have to vote in the fall is by visiting the Bureau of Elections starting Sept. 21 and applying for, marking, and returning a vote-by-mail ballot all in one stop at the Bureau of Elections office in the Government Center behind the county courthouse.

A second voter services office is located in Upper Darby and a third temporary center is being considered for Chester.

Exhibit 11

“People can vote by mail, over the counter, up through Oct. 27. You can go into one of these offices, apply for a ballot, they will approve the voter, if the voter has the necessary ID, and then they will issue the ballot right there,” said Reuther. “The person will fill out the ballot, put it in the privacy envelope and then return it to the same person who logged it in and that person will have voted have voted by mail - voted by mail over the counter!”

The CTCL grant funding will also enable what Reuther is calling additional "pop up" election offices which are planned to be stationed around the county on a reservation basis.

Reuther said county council approves the money for elections while the Election Board enacts the plan. On Thursday, after listening to hours of public comment, the election board approved moving ahead with the drop boxes in their the deployment plan. Final approval is still needed as to locations, installations and security. The vote was 2-1 with both Democrats voting in favor of the drop boxes and the lone Republican member of the board voting against it.

Reuther said one issue from the spring primary they hope to avoid is provisional ballots. During the primary, 7,750 provisional ballots were cast, nearly 20 times the average. Provisional ballots require extensive handling and slow the count. If a voter has a mail-in ballot on Election Day, they should bring it and all the envelopes that came with it to their polling place and present it to the Judge of Elections, who will take it and allow the voter to cast their vote in person.

The CTCL grant will also provide hazard pay for poll workers and sufficient staffing of election sites, purchase equipment and to hire temporary staff to support processing of the mail-in ballot applications.

Reuther said the county is still hiring 60-70 seasonal employees. Computer skills are helpful, and second or third shift is desired. The rate is $13.50 an hour. Go to <https://www.delcopa.gov/employment/index.html> to apply.

The United States must hold its election on Tuesday, November 3rd. Ohio will have four weeks of absentee voting, early in-person voting and election day voting as we always have. And we will be ready.

Ohio will have a safe, secure and accurate Election Day.

The quote tweet includes a link to a news article and a block of text discussing conservative views on abortion and homosexuality. The text reads: "Two sources ... recalled Trump needling Pence about his views on abortion and homosexuality. During a meeting ... [a] legal scholar had said that, if the Supreme Court did so, many states would likely legalize abortion on their own. 'You see? Trump asked Pence. 'You've wasted all this time and energy on it, and it's not going to end abortion anyway.'" Another quote tweet from A. Akios (@akios) dated Oct 16, 2017, includes a link to a news article and text stating: "When the conversation turned to gay rights, Trump motioned toward Pence and joked, 'Don't ask that guy — he wants to hang them all!'"

Below the tweets, there is a "What's happening" section with trending topics such as "New Zealand has gone 100 days without community transmission of COVID-19" and "Rep - Trending".

So far, the government is trying to claim that "more than 900" of these kids may not be "eligible" to be given back to their parents. Ever, I guess?

- Class members interviewed and claimed for reunification: 848
- Potential class members pending interview: 272
- Potential class members released to the interior by ICE: 222
- Potential class members in ICE custody pending ORR review of adult and child files: 261
- Potential class members, or non-members of the class, either not eligible or not yet known to be eligible, for reunification: 908
- Adults known to be in U.S. Marshal, State or local custody: 2
- At interview, parent waived reunification: 156
